US$2 MILLION EternityII PRIZE COMPETITION RULES

Congratulations!

You are one step closer to winning US$2,000,000.

Are you ready?

EternityII has 256 numbered puzzle pieces. Remove the pieces from the outer frames and check that all pieces (1–256) are present. To replace any missing pieces, please visit www.EternityII.com. Please register your copy of EternityII and its sister puzzles at www.EternityII.com.

Solving Eternity II

Make a square from all the pieces,
With the grey ones round the border;
Place the starter-piece correctly;
Match all touching pairs of edges –

Do it first and win US$2 Million!

Place starter-piece 139 as shown on the board. Then place all the other pieces pattern side facing up, with the grey edges around the outside. Match all colours and symbols on as many adjoining pairs of edges as you can.

When you have done this, please complete a copy of the entry form enclosed, which can also be downloaded from www.EternityII.com. In Box 1 at the top of the form, write your name, age, address and a daytime telephone number. In the small ovals between cells, tick each matching pair of edges (the colours and the symbols must match). Leave ovals between unmatched pairs of edges blank. Count how many ovals you ticked. Your score (maximum 480) is the total number of correctly matched pairs of edges. Write your score in Box 2 at top right on the entry form. In each cell on the form, write and underline the number on the back of the piece you put in that cell on the board.

Tomy UK Ltd. will pay US$2 Million or its equivalent at the prevailing exchange rate to the sender of the first valid entry with a maximum score of 480 matched pairs of edges received after the launch on 28 July 2007 and before noon GMT on 31 December 2010 (or, at Tomy's discretion, a later date if no winner has been found by then) with all 256 EternityII puzzle pieces arranged as a 16 x 16 square so that the starting-piece is placed as shown on the board, all the grey edges form the boundary, and all colours and symbols on each edge of every piece are identical to those on the adjacent edge of the neighbouring piece.

CLUE PUZZLES

To help you to solve the Eternity II prize puzzle, you can solve the smaller puzzles, Clue Puzzles 1 and 2. Form a 6x6 square (Clue Puzzle 1) or 12x6 rectangle (Clue Puzzle 2) with the grey edges around the outside, and match all pairs of adjoining edges. For each Clue Puzzle you solve, register your solution at www.EternityII.com to obtain a hint that gives the correct position of one piece of the prize puzzle. You can solve the prize puzzle without using the hints, but you must place the starter piece as shown on the board. Clue Puzzles 3 and 4, each with another hint for the prize puzzle, will launch in early 2008. Further Clue Puzzles may be launched at a later date at Tomy's discretion. There are no prizes for solving any Clue Puzzle.

TERMS AND CONDITIONS

All entries received between the launch and closing dates will be held secure and unopened until the next scrutiny date, when they will be opened and judged in order of receipt. The first entrant with a validated maximum score of 480 matched pairs of edges wins the US$2 Million prize. In the event that two or more such entries are received at the same time and date, the US$2 Million prize will be divided equally between the entrants. If no outright winner is found, Tomy may, at its discretion, announce a lesser prize for the highest-scoring entry since launch. Winners must pay any applicable tax on prizes. Any winner will be notified by post, telephone or email within 14 days of the scrutiny. A winner must allow his or her name, likeness, home town and solution to be used in publicity. The results of each annual scrutiny, the announcement of any winner, and details of partial-solution prizes will be published in the London Times and in the New York Times, and at www.EternityII.com.

Anyone aged 18 or over other than the inventors, Tomy, the judges or associated companies or employees or their families may enter, but entry is not available in The Netherlands, Japan, Germany, Austria, Italy, Florida, Maryland, Vermont, North Dakota or Arizona. For details of how residents of these territories may enter and of prizes available to them, please visit www.EternityII.com.

The judges will not be responsible for entries incorrectly addressed, lost, damaged, delayed or destroyed in the mail, and will disqualify entries insufficiently stamped, late, altered, illegible, invalid, over-claiming scores, submitted by entrants under 18 or otherwise contrary to these Rules. To protect other solvers, the judges will disqualify any entry whose existence becomes publicly known before the date of the annual scrutiny following its submission, and any entrant who has publicly disclosed any details of any of the Eternity II pieces in any form or medium.

The sale prices of the Eternity II puzzle and Clue puzzles may vary between countries of sale to take account of prevailing market conditions.

By entering the competition you agree to be bound by these Rules, which the judges will interpret. Their decisions will be final. No correspondence will be entered into. Any entrant who attempts to correspond with the judges will be disqualified. The English text will prevail. English law governs the competition. The English courts shall have exclusive jurisdiction to settle any dispute or claim arising out of or in connection with Eternity II and these Rules.

Good luck!
